WorkPartners is very proud to announce that our Director of Therapy, Leanne Lundgren, DPT, has achieved the distinction of becoming an Orthopedic Certified Specialist recognized by the American Board of Physical Therapy Specialties. Fewer than 10% of physical therapists gain Board certification, which demonstrates advanced knowledge, skills, and abilities in their chosen specialty. This distinction elevates the physical therapy department at WorkPartners to the highest levels of care in the specialty of orthopedics. Congratulations to Dr. Lundgren for her achievement!

What is your role and responsibility at WorkPartners?

"I care for patients and help them return to their previous level of function resulting from work-related injuries large and small. Having been a patient myself I know there is a lot of trust involved in the recovery process and I am honored patients trust me with their recovery. I am also responsible for running the therapy department, which consists of physical therapists, occupational therapists and rehab aides. I get the opportunity to work with some of the best people in a fun and safe environment."

Is the glass half empty or half full?

"It is always half full. There is a silver lining in every situation."

How do you keep a healthy work/life balance?

"I make a point not to bring any work home with me and to be present when I am at home. I have a lot of hobbies that keep me busy and I am surrounded by wonderful family and friends."

What's the one thing about you few people know?

"I have never ate sushi because the thought of raw meat freaks me out!"

What's your favorite funny story about yourself?

"As a little girl I was in 4H and had a dairy cow. I would walk Maggee (the cow) down the street while my friends walked their dogs."

What is most rewarding about your job?

"The most rewarding part of my job is seeing patients succeed with their physical goals. I love watching the healing process take place and witnessing the changes in patients. I also find joy in seeing patients make lifestyle changes to improve their overall health and help prevent future injuries. I am continually amazed by the human body and its ability to heal and adapt."
